The diagram illustrates the concept of contrast difference. It features a light gray background on the left and a darker gray vertical bar on the right. A double-headed horizontal arrow spans the width of the darker bar. A box labeled 'Contrast difference' is positioned to the left of the bar. To the right of the bar, another box contains 'Background LRV' and 'Object/element LRV'. An arrow points from this box up to the background, and another points from the box left to the darker bar. Below the bar, text specifies '10% Light Reflectance Value (LRV)' for the background and '60% LRV' for the object. A final line of text states 'Contrast = 50 points of contrast difference'.
